Your school.

Your legacy.

Gators forever.

Regardless of your means, you can make a real and lasting difference. Planning your legacy gift today shows you have the will to lead and the vision to ensure the values you live by, the causes you cherish and the people you care about will flourish for generations to come. You may be able to give more through your estate than is possible now, making an even bigger impact. It’s a simple, powerful way for anyone to build a lasting legacy.

Will you consider leaving a gift in your estate to help the University of Florida create a better world?

The future won’t take care of itself, but your legacy will endure.
